DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 16, 2005 has been entered.
2. Applicant's cancellation of claims 7, 12-20, 22, 23 and 28 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 21, 24-27 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wolfe (4,014,493).

Wolfe discloses (figures 12 & 13) an apparatus comprising:

a housing (22, 41) having a periphery that includes a bottom wall and a first side wall; a recess that extends into the bottom wall and forms a base opening in the bottom wall (the recess to accommodate the stapler);

Art Unit: 3721

the recess extending into the first sidewall and forms a wall opening in the first sidewall;

a stapler (the portion that fits into the recess of the housing) comprising a hinged end from which extend a stapler base and an activating member and a stapler open end (slot 24) for receiving materials to be stapled, wherein the stapler base extends into the base opening and forms a portion of the bottom wall and the actuating member is releasably secured to the housing in a manner to position the stapler open end at the wall opening (figures 12 & 13).

Wolfe further discloses (figures 12 & 13): the housing side wall opening and bottom wall opening comprise a recess in the housing peripheral walls and the stapler is fitted into the recess; the peripheral walls include a bottom wall into which extends the bottom wall opening and side wall into which extends the side wall opening, the base of the stapler being about coplanar with the bottom wall; the open end of the stapler is proximate to the side wall; the stapler has an outline and the peripheral walls include a corner with a recess having a shape that corresponds to the outline; and the stapler being fitted into the recess.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2-6, 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wolfe (4,014,493) in view of Padden (6,009,584).

As discussed above in paragraph 4 of this office action, Wolfe discloses the claimed invention, but does not expressly disclose the recess for the stapler as recited in claims 2-6 and 8, however, it is well known in the art to create recess in the housing of the multiple-purpose tool holder in such a way that the recess accommodates the shape and size of the tool being inset to the housing. The recess comprises slot, curve portion, flange, tab, etc.

Padden's disclosure supports the contention that it is well known in the art to create recess in the housing of the multiple purpose tool holder with varieties of shapes and sizes to accommodate varieties of tool. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time applicant's invention was made, to have combined Wolfe and Padden, and modified Wolfe by incorporating the creation of recesses in the housing of the multiple-purpose tool holder to fit different tools as taught by Padden.

As for a hole punch to fit an opening at the corner opening in the tool housing as recited in the claims 9 and 10, the examiner takes official notice that it is within the skill of one in the art to provide a hole puncher in the multiple purpose tool holder providing a complete stationery tool set.

Regarding to claim 9, the applicant has not challenged the examiner's taking the Official Notice (Office action dated December 15, 2004). Therefore, the examiner's position (regarding the rejection of claim 9) is maintained and the subject matter, per se, of claim 9 is deemed admitted prior art.

7. Claim 11 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wolfe (4,014,493) in view of Ng (6,145,994).

As discussed above in paragraph 4 of this office action, Wolfe discloses the claimed invention, but does not expressly disclose a lighting means mounted within the housing and oriented for illumination through the aperture, and an activation means to illuminate the lighting.

Ng discloses an apparatus comprising lighting means (30) mounted within the aperture and an activation means (28) to illuminate the lighting, Ng apparatus provides the multiple-purpose tool holder with lighting capability. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time applicant's invention was made, to have modified Wolfe by incorporating the lighting apparatus as taught by Ng providing the multiple-purpose tool holder with lighting capability.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to Chiou (4,807,744) and Orozco (5,184,765) have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

9. In response to the Applicant's argument that Ng and Padden card-like housing, fitting a stapler into the pocket of thin, card-like housing would be impossible, the examiner contention is that the teaching of Ng and Padden provide motivation and concept of multiple-purpose tool holder, and the thickness of the tool holder is varied and depending on the sizes of the tools that are fitted into the tool holder.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
